A DESPERATE FIGHT .- A desperate fight occurred on the Shepherdsville road, Saturday, about fourteen miles from the city, between a party of draymen and some wagoners. The former were getting the best of it, when some "Salt River tigers' on whom there is no discount,) pitched in and victory perched upon the banners of the country-men. A number of the men and one man thought to be fatally injured.

We could ascertain no names. P. S. Since the above appeared in printrestorday, we learn that as to the fight here was little foundation for the report. Some threatening demonstrations were that vicinity was torn up, and the countrymen refused to let one load pass up the road, on account of some intemperate language used by drayman.

THE LOUISVILLE ZOUAVES .- This gallant company was inustered into the State Guard on Friday evenlug, numberlug fifty strong, all good men and true. They are now fully organized, and are composed of the best members of the old companythe Marion Rifles-and we predict that the new company of Zouaves will be one of the best drilled and most efficient in the State. MAJORITY 70,000:

Our disputches, private and otherwise, clearly show that the ordinance of secession has been ratified in Tennessee by a tremenduous majority - perhaps 70,000. Thus strides the Southern Republic towards greatness among the nationalities of the earth. Another star is torn from the old Union, and another star brightens the firmament of the Southern Constellation. Eleven States, with a population of 9,000,000, are nuited in the tight for constitutional liberty; when they are subjugated, then liberty has no name, no place

The Northern and Southern Army-Their Relative Situations.

The editor of the Cincinnuti Commer ial writes as follows from Washington : Washington is the center of the military position of the grand army of the United States, now threatening the insurgent section of Virginia. The left wing is a Fortress Monroe. The right wing is at Chambersburg, Pa., and in Western Virginia. The disposition of the Confederate torces corresponds to this. The center is in Richmond, or in advance of that point, perhaps at Manassas Junction. The right wing is at Norfolk—the left wing at Harper's Ferry. Information can undoubtedly be circulated more rapidly between the various hodies of the Coul-derate troops than between those of the United States, and the Virginian commanders could concentrate their forces upon the center with greater celerity than the United States efficies could make the same movement. Thus about diffeen hours would be required for Gep. Scott to communicate an order to Washington is the conter of the military atterson's, nor McClellen's be brought to fashington in time to take part latte braffets of the first two or three days for repeasesion of this city. Certainly Discould very well afford to lose Norfolk is could to very well afford to lose Norfolk in Harper's Ferry II he could take Washington; but as certainly he would not attempt such a thing unless quite desperate. The force here is considerably over thousand men, and with Gen. Scott to command them, they would seem constitutions.

on abroad, there is nothing approach a slarar.

It I might venture a criticism upon the isposition of the United States forces, I hould say that there are either too many should say that there are either too many or too few men in the vicinity of Fortress Mouroe. If Butler is to move upon Richmond, he needs teu thousand more men. If he is not to move upon Richmond, half a dozen regiments now under his command should be here. I should rather two splendid regiments just shipped from New York to Fortress Monroe had been diversed here for the force per should be New fork to Fortices Motive has been directed here, for the force here should be so overwhelming as to make all idea of danger perfectly absurd.

The one feature that I dislike in connection with affairs here, is the want of reliable information concerning the Southern army, while the movements and forces of the U.S. Government are doubtless nearly as well.

S. Government are doubtless heary as wen known in Richmond as here. We get no Richmond they get Washington and New York papers, containing details of every movement, and the current suggestions as to the future. Whether the Government is entirely justified in its lofty confidence, which seems to scorn secrees in its operatirely justified in its lofty confidence, which seems to scorn secrecy In its operations, the event must determine. An instance of the uses of the telegraph may be instructive. While I was in Baltimore a few days since, two regiments of Pennsylvanians passed through that chy on the way to Chambersburg. This fact was the amountement that a movement upon Harper's Ferry might be expected. No restriction was placed upon the telegraphic publication of the fact. The Western press had the news next morning. The intelligence had only to cross the river to be telegraphic South, and theree straight late Verginia, advising the rebels of the concentration of troops at Chambersburg, before hall the regiments ordered there hal arrived. The Government may be so powerful as to be indifferent to this sert of thing. It would seem so. But It Davis should move tea thousand men from Harper's Ferry, and twe thousand from Norlok to make an attack upon Washington, be sure the Southern telegraph would not tell it in the South-west, that it might reach the North-west, and make the circuit, coming here.

AMERICAN AFFAIRS .- Those who doubt that England will recognize the independence of the Confederate States, will thad ittle consolation lu this peragraph from Lord Palmerston's official organ of May 22, saying:

The recognition of the thirteen North American colonies by France, and the recognition of Mixico and the South American provinces formerly held by Spain, furnish a rule which the Government of Mr.
Lincoln cannot, with any regard to consistency afford to disregard. Neither in France nor in this country will any hasty

Baltimore, June 7.—No movement of troops has yet beeu made to-daying to present writing, but the most active preparatious for a grand march are going on. The plan of operations at Harper's Ferry Is gradually being developed. The first move will probably be to dislodge the Confederate forces and their batteries at the Point of Rocks. The force now at Frederick, some 4,000 strong, will attempt their dislongement. They have quite a number of twenty-four-pound cannons, which, from the Maryland side, can operate most effectually against the batteries of the Confederates, which are in a greatly exposed position.

Jefferson Davis was expected to arrive at Harper's Ferry on Wednesday, in company with Beauregard, to learn the exact condition of affairs at the Ferry and Point of Rocks. It is believed that Davis will soon take command in person. There has been no more descritions than could be expected. A Strange Proceeding—Attempt of Father to Bury his Child Ative. [From the Detroft Tribune.]
A great excitement was created Wednes

A great excitened was created Wedues, day evening among the residents on Ilastings street, between Woodbridge and Atwater, occasioned by the attempt of a father to bury alive his son, a bright little fellow, but seven years of age. The man's name is Daniel Welch, and the only explanation that can be given of his extraordinary conduct, is, that he was either drank or crazy. During the afternoon yesterday, he wen o the cabinet warerooms of Messrs. Flat othe capitet warerooms of Messas. "They are going to bury a boy alive uphere." This last remark caused them to investigate the matter further, and being guided by the last named boy, they proceeded to Weleb's house, where the confinence of the con ceeded to Weleb's house, where the coffin was seen upon a table in the front room, and the little victim running about the house in great terror of approaching harm. Welch was charged with intending to nurder his child, but stoutly denied it, and said that Doctor Russell owed him a sum of money and had paid him with an order on Flattery Bros., and that he had purchased with it the coffin, that it might be in the house should an occasion arise when it might become necessary to use it. when it might become necessary to use it. SPEECH OF MR. LINDSAY, M. P., IN SUPPORT OF JEFF DAVIS.

England and France Advised to Recognize the Independence of the South.

Mr. Lindsay, M. P., whose visit to this country last year on a commercial errand. attracted much notice from the press and much interest in mercantile circles, made a speech recently to his constituents at Sunderland on the results of his mission. In regard to the American war, he took oceasion to say:

It was a matter in which they in England, and especially ehip-owners, were deeply interested. Civil war had now broken ont, and he deplored it as much as any man, but in traveling through the States he say that severally a say that say t but in traveling through the States he saw that separation was a mere question of time. It was clear to his mind that however well a Republican form of Government might answer with a limited number of people in a imited territory, when a nation amounting to upwards of 30,000,000 people, spread over thousands of miles, consisting of thirty-three States, and cach State a self-governing State, with Interests opposite to each other, and with feelings, in many respects, totally differing, however well a Republican government might answer on a limited seale, it was impossible to guide a vast country such as the United States by that form of government. As he said before, to his mind it was a mere question of time when the States should separate. In this question it was their duty to act upon the principles which, he was glad to see west ability in intrinsers and was clud to see, were daily gaining ground a this country—those of non-intervention.

in this country—those of non-intervention. (Cheera.)

As Lord John Russell hail made one step to acknowledging the Southern Confederation as belligerents, he felt that when the proper time farrived it would be desirable that he should take another step in advance, and acknowledge the Southern Confederation as an independent power. [Hear] It must come to this in time, and if England and France, at the proper moment, acknowledged the Southern Confederation as an independent power, it might stay the cry of revenge which he was sorry to hear coming from the North against the Southern Confederation is an independent power, it might stay the cry of revenge which he was sorry to hear coming from the North against the Southern States for the purpose of subdning these States, and might tend to save much bloodshed. The adoption of this course would prove of great benefit, not only to the people of England and the people of Europe, hat of great advantage in time to the people of America themselves. [Applanse.]

The movement for separation of the States was not the impulse of the moment. Those who suppose that this movement has arisen within the last six or twelve unonths were under a sad misapprehension. He had many friends—many excellent friends—in the Northern States—but he was bound to state to this meeting that he conscientiously believed that the system of taxation which they had carried out had been a system of great liphastice to the Southern States. So far back as 1828, they commenced a system of high tariffs. In 1333, the tariff was increased to such an extent that South Carolina entered her protest, and then threaten d to do what she has now carried into effect, viz: to seeded from the Union. She sail: "We are crounded down with taxes which the weals at the military organization. It clears stitute a military organization. It clears the military organization. It clears stitute a militar extent that South Carolina entered ner protest, and then threatened to do what she has now carried into effect, viz: to secede from the Union. She said: "We are ground down with taxes which the people cannot pay." Upon that, the Northern States entered into a "compromise tariff." That tariff subsisted for the ten subsequent years, the taxation or high duties upon imports being gradually reduced, until, in 1843, when protection, it was agreed, should cease, and the duties to be levied for revenue purposes only, should, after that date, not exceed twenty percent. But, in 1846, Congress passed a higher tariff, higher, he balieves, than in 1828; in 1845 they increased that tariff, and they had all heard of the Morrill tariff passed in the present year—passed at the time, too, when the Sonthern Senators were not in the House. On many articles of that lariff they imposed a duty of not less than 200 per cent. When they looked to the exports of America, and where these exports came from, they could not be surprised that the Sonthern States resisted what they considered to be oppression. Last year the exports cannel from, they could not be surprised that the sonthern States resisted what they considered to be oppression. Last year the ex-

They rebelled, and they would remember reading in history the words of Mr. Pitt. Every man in this country, no doubt, holds the scattlments which Pitt then held; and every man admitted that when a great people had arrived at the position that they were competent to govern themselves, and when they felt that they were coppressed with taxation, that they had a right to govern themselves. Now look at the consequences of the attempt at coercion.

The Southern States had a population of whileh consisted of whites. The ten States which had seceded had a population of hetween 8,000,000 and 9,000,000, and 5,000,000 of those were whites. to Richmond:

If you wish to know why the Government was removed to Richmond, I can say circumstances have arisen that have rendered it proper. We have received the Old Dominion into our Confederacy. Her soil will, perhaps, be the battle-ground of this struggle. Her enemies are gathered around her to force her into subjection to their foul dietakes. We felt it our duty to be at the seat of war. We wanted to let Virghnia know that whatever threats or dangers were presented to her, filled our hearts with sympathy for her, which we are willing to exhibit to show that there was not a man in the Coufederacy who was afrald to be at his post on Virginia soil. We also wanted to be near our brave boys, so that when we three off the badge and we were willing to be at the post to be among the first victims. We were willing to to say to Lincoln, when he attempts to put his foot on Virginia soil, "Thus far shalt thou come, and no farther." [Cheers.]

The Illegality of the Ordinance "Establishing a Volunteer Police for the City of Louisville, to be Styled

Such are the provisions of the ordinance Such are the provisions of the ordinance which are pertinent to the question now in hand. If the power claimed by the Mayor and Conneil in the enarment of the ordinance exists at all, it must be by virue of the eity charter and its succedancits, which are their fundamental laws. With the exception of the law, or threatened it jury to life proposed that was sent across to meet the balance of trade, all those exports were patd in imports bearing high protective duties—from our own country to a large extent. The consequence was that the Somthern States, being in the minority in the Federal Legislature, had practically no voice in the distribution of those taxes, though paying their proportion of these taxes as 2% was to 1. It was not surprising, then, leoking at those things, that the South should make a stand and say, "We will in fature govern ourselves, as we have not the weight in the Federal Legislature which we think we are entitled to." Those gentlemen in that rooms, familiar with history, were aware that the Americans—the forefathers of those who were now resident in the Northern and Southern States—remore than it can presume that those very citizens will fail to discharge theirs. We have said enough to show what are the duties of the Mayor; that the above section of the character merely cenuss a cass of his duties, and gives to the Council no power whatever, except to impose fines and penalties for disobadience to the Mayor's order or summons, and certainly none to establish a military between

The other sections of the charter which are referred to in the ordinance as a ground of authority for the Mayor and Council, are contained in an amendment to it, passed by the Legislature, and approved March 8, 1856, and are as fellows:

In considering this amendment, it necessary to premise that the "Pil he charter of 1851 required the water man be elected by the vote of the people; be elected by the vote of the pesque; but the above amendment gave the council it is, power to appoint or prescribe the role of their appointment. If from the latter point, the purpose is to get into the rear of either General Patterson or General McDowell, when they may move in the direction they evidently aim to proceed in—the first directly on Harper's Ferry, from Chambersburg, the second to Manassas Junction, to cut off the retreat of General Johnson's forces, by rail. We do not, however, credit the story, as, if true, whoever directs the strategy of the disminent troops would be insuring the defeat of his forces in detail; for General McDowell could as soon arrive before Leesburgh by a forced march, as before Manassa Junction; and that, too, when it would be impossible for the enemy at either of theer points to succor their friends at the other point. Indeed, they could adopt no surer way of expediting their own eventual entire deleat in this vicinity, than by this easyling to occupy positions distant from each other, and from whence it would be impossible for either of their divisions to support the other.—[Wash. When the difficulties between the see tions began to assume their present proortions, the friends of the South said, that Kentucky should be united, that the position she should occupy ought to be submitted to the votes of the people, and that the minority should acquiesce in the de cision of the majority.

In order to ascertain the scuse of the people, and to learn their wishes, the Southern Rights men proposed to hold a sovereignty Convention, the members to be elected directly by the people, and their action to be submitted for ratification.

TO ACTUAL CULTIVATORS. LANDS OF ILLINOIS.

No State in the Valley of the Mississippi offers so great an inducement to the settler as the State of Illinois. There is no portion of the world where all the conditions of climate and soil so admirably combine to produce these two great staples, CORN and WHEAT, as the Prairies of Illinois. EASTERN AND SOUTHERN MARKETS. These lands are contiguous to a railread 700 miles in length, which connects with other reads and navigable later and rivers, thus affording an unbroken communication with the Eastern and Southern markets.

RAILROAD SYSTEM OF ILLINOIS Over $10,00,000 of private capital have been expended on the railroad system of Illinois. Hassmuch as part of the lacome from several of these works, with a valuable public fund in lands, go to diminish the State expenses; the TALES ARE HOST, and must consequently every day decrease. THE STATE DEET.

The State delt is only $10,106,398 14, and within the last three years has been reduced $2,950,746 80, and we may reasonably expect that in ten years it will become extinct.

PRESENT POPULATION. The State is rapidly filing up with population; 863,025 persons having been added since 1830, making the present population 1,723,663, a ratio of 102 per cent. in ten years. The Agricultural Products of Illinois are greater than these of any other State. The products sent out during the past year exceeded 1,500,000 tons. The wheat crop of 1850 approaches dollars per acre, when the cash prace will be five tollars.

for the Relay House. They will form a portion of one of the columns which are to operate against Harper's Ferry.

A column of General Patierson's army is appreaching by the way of Hageistown, and a column of General McClellan's is moving from the West.

Help cannot come to General Johnston from Mannassas Junction. Gen. McDowell will engage the whole attention of the rebels posted there, nor can they be reinforced from Richmond and Norfolk. for Gen. Butler will be a dangerous loe to leave even inactive in their rear. He will not remain quiet.

There are armed steamers enough in the Potamae to threaten approaches to the Capitol of the Old Dominion.

Washington, June 7.—Two regiments from Wisconsin have been ordered to Washington. The President will probably accept four more from that State.

A regiment of cavalry has been accepted from the interior of New York.

There is no anthority for stating that the First Beginnent of Cavalry and Second Regiment of Dragoons, U. S. A., have lieen ordered from the Department of the West to this neighborhood.

Capt. Fainter's corps of topographical Engineers have returned from recommoisance of several points on the Potomac. He landed at several places on the Virginiside of the Potomac attended by two officers and 20 marines.

They proceeded a considerable distance. At White House point he saw about sixty Secessionists, who made their appearance there a few days ago. At Acquir Creek two small batteries with 500 or 600 men were distinctly seen by the party.

There is reason to believe that their will be a charge in the command at Bairimore. Brigadier-General Cooper with a regiment of 1,200 men his entered the city, and encamped on the Western subarbs.

Gen. Scott informed the President and McDowel's command, are under orders to be ready at a moment's warning to repel attack or to move forward.

Lieut. Col. Comstock, of the Michigan regiment, resigned, business requiring his presence at home.

We have good reason to believe that before many hours a column of 4,000 men will march from this city towards Harper's Ferry, the whole commanded by Col. Stone of the Fourteenth Infantry. The hour of starting, which was postponed several lines, is not yet defisitely determined. This column will probably have no more severe task than that of intercepting the lugitlyes driven by the other commands from Harper's Ferry. Other regiments are nuder murching orders.

We heard from a prominent politician from Wheeling, what will be the probable course of the Convention. All the leading men have agreed not to attempt making a new State out of Western Virginia, but to act for the Old Dominion as a whole, setting up a Provisional Government. The first net of the Covention will be to depose Governor Letcher, and his rebellions associates. It will then appoint good and true men in their places.

The Provisional Governor will probably be Gen. Jackson, of Parkersburg. He is only delayed till a portion of the rifles are finished. New York, June 8.—The Herald says letters just receive from John C. Fremont, dated Loudon, stating that he has purchased 10 000 linfield rifles and several butteries of rifled cannon tor the Government, which he is waiting for, to bring with him. He is only delayed till a portion of the rifles are finished.

He also states that the Southern Confederace computationary her literature and administrative confederace computationary her literature that the southern Confederace computationary her literature and finished. Res are finished.

He also states that the Southern Confederacy commissioners had instructions to procure several steamers in Eugland for the service of the Montgomery Government, but that there was difficulty about a getting money. They succeeded, however, in purchasing two steamers, for which they and freedom. These vessels, it appears, and freedom is the service of the servic getting money. They succeeded, however, in purchasing two steamers, for which they paid £7c,000. These vessels, it appears, are to sail for a Southern port under the British lag, and registered as properly of British owners, carrying nothing centraleand of war, but probably in ballast, merely. How they will be served by our blockading squadron remains to be seen.

NEW FORK, Jane 8.—It is runnored that Henry A. Wise isin a rapid decline.

A Paris letter says it is runnored that a duel is on the tapis between our Minister. A l'aris letter says it is rumored that a duel is on the tapis between our Minister to Belgium, Mr. Sandford, and a Virginlan, growing out of some remarks of the former relative to the lutter, on the steamer on which they were passengers.
